

Special Christmas party brings holiday cheer to Haitian kids

Miami Jewish Health Systems (MJHS), one of South Florida's largest providers of comprehensive healthcare, helped spread Christmas cheer to a group of children affected by the devastating earthquake in Haiti by hosting a special Christmas party for them on Dec. 22, 2010. At the party, which marked the first Christmas since the January 2010 tragedy, MJHS staff/residents joined Miami Heat mascot Burnie and City of Miami Mayor Tomás Regalado in handing out dozens of toys, including bicycles, to a group of more than 25 children who were evacuated from the island nation after the disaster.
